Hello, Mandy. You asked me to let you know the next time I'll be in town in case Mr. Pruitt might be able to meet with me. I'll be attending a conference from 8 to 3 on Thursday, May 18, and hope to arrange for pre-screening of Cornwall Alliance's newest video documentary either that evening, the evening before, or the next morning. I've not yet made my flight arrangements for the trip but would happily come early enough to meet with Mr. Pruitt Tuesday or Wednesday the 16th or 17th or stay long enough to meet with him Friday the 19th if he can fit me into his schedule.

Please pass on to him my commendation for saying yesterday that the U.S. needs to pull out of the Paris climate agreement!

In Christ,
 Cal

All good points.

I wish I did, but I have no insight on the CEQ Chair process or who is up for consideration. I do know Mary Neumayr who is the current Chief of Staff at CEQ very well. She and I worked closely on the hill.

Best,
 Mandy

By the way, you might want to see my op ed about yesterday's executive order:

<http://dailycaller.com/2017/03/28/trumps-energy-independence-order-a-boon-to-america-and-the-environment/>. I've done two radio interviews about the EO so far and have six more scheduled through Friday—and will probably get some more. And Cornwall Alliance Senior Fellow Dr. Roy W. Spencer's blog about it is at <http://www.drroyspencer.com/2017/03/trumps-rollback-of-epa-overreach-what-no-one-is-talking-about/>.

On messaging, I think a key point to make, over and over, is that we don't have to choose between prosperity and a clean, healthful, beautiful environment: prosperity enables us to afford a clean, healthful, beautiful environment.

A related subject: Do you know if CEQ chair has been appointed yet? I think Kathleen Hartnett White would be wonderful for the position, and I understand she's been under consideration. And if there's any way I can be of help to the Administration on environmental issues—especially as they relate to economic development—I'm eager to do so.

In Christ,
Cal

By the way, Paul Balserak, formerly deputy director of the regulatory policy division in the Administrator's Office, where he tried long and hard to limit the damage done by Obama's EPA Administrators, is someone who might be very helpful in cleaning up the EPA. I've attached his contact card for you. Very fine man, and a friend. If you contact him, tell him I referred you.

Hi Cal,

I was forwarded your earlier meeting request with Administrator Pruitt, since we were unable to work out the scheduling. I want to let you know that I am now here at EPA working in the Administrator's Office and would love to meet with you next time you are in town. Please give me a heads up when you'll be back and what times you are available.

On a different note, I appreciate all the work you did leading up to the Administrator's nomination hearing and the extra push after. As the former committee staffer, that goes a long way.

I look forward to touching base soon!

Best,
Mandy

Thanks, Mandy, and hello, Liz.

Mandy, per our conversation last week, I've placed one op ed (by me) explaining why it's good to "get out of Paris" in The Stream, where it should first appear in the next few days. I'm shopping another (by Roy Spencer) around to other publications. And I'll be requesting more from other Cornwall writers over the next few days.

One more little note: To rise the heat of the Earth atmosphere by one degree Fahrenheit requires about 500,000 million barrels of oil. (one barrels oil = 60,080,000 Btu).

Dear E. Calvin,

I get the feeling that you are not very bright either.

1. Humans exhale about 1,800 million tons of CO2 per year. Humans need to be killed to stop that.
2. Heat from the 2,000F center of Earth radiates out into the Universe at a rate equivalent to 300 million barrels of oil per day, which physically prevents any heat from coming in. So, why debate warming?

Yours,
Ernst
